LET THE SUN SHINE IN YOUR LIFE!

You may think that this is not possible in current times...but this is precisely what you need to do!

Remember, the best things in life are free!

I hear you saying, "Yeah! food and drink aren't free, paying the household bills aren't free etc"!!

Well that is true but take a moment to consider this.... Yes we need money to survive, and to get money we need a job. However you can use the time before you take your next job wisely. It is precisely at times like this that we get a different view of our lives, we get to take a different perspective on things, which is good.

You may have lost your job and may be feeling that your world has ended as a result..but thankfully life goes on and change is a natural cycle of life! In fact, life is a series of changing cycles...as one door closes, others open before you....

Consider this as simply an opportunity for you to review your life...I urge you to grasp the opportunity with both hands, use your free time to sit down and take this wonderful chance to decide what is important in your life.

MAYBE:-

- there is a job that you would like to be doing but never had the courage to change your life to pursue.
- you have secretly wanted to go to college or classes to learn a new skill or pursue a dream...of learning how to paint or draw, play an instrument, or some other skill...

Make use of your precious time and consider:-

- a review of your life - what do you want to change now?
- What are your goals for the future?
- What is most important to you in your life?
- How will you achieve your goals?
- Devise a step by step plan for the future?
- What can you do now?

All of these questions and more are what you need to consider so that your future is planned to tailor your desires and bring you the happiness you so
